

Courageous Self-Leadership

During Times of Change

How embracing self-leadership helps us move from a place of fear to a place of courage so we can then rise above adversities better & brighter than ever before.

During this session you will learn:

1. How the five types of leadership courage (physical, social, moral, intellectual and emotional) will help you take on more challenging projects, deal better with change and exceed expectations.
2. What it means to be a talented self-leader and how it will help you to engage better with your team.
3. How finding the courage to be fallible will transform you into the calm, kind, smart and visionary leader the world needs right now.
